

Soft colours, a clear statement:

Textliner 46 Pastel made from recycled plastic

Creative trends such as handlettering and bullet journalling are becoming ever more popular, while working from home and home schooling have now become the norm for many people. So we're spending more and more time at our desks – and naturally we want to make these as beautiful and sustainable as possible. The Textliner 46 Pastel provides the ideal support in this respect: the barrel and cap as well as the case of these markers are now made of 100% recycled plastic, as is the new promotional display for the pens. The long-lasting wedge tip, which comes in three different line widths, and the water-based ink, which is suitable for all standard paper types, are also sustainable. Whether colouring in or highlighting, it is the perfect choice and comes in nine wonderfully soft tones, from Vanilla and Rosé to Light Blue.

And for all those dreaming of escaping from their desk, Faber-Castell presents the Textliner 46 Pastel in an inspiring special edition: the motto "It's travel o'clock" and motifs such as Lady Liberty and Sydney's spectacular opera house will capture the imagination – and take you on a holiday in your mind. With these markers, you can also be climate-friendly while on the go: the barrels and caps of the Travel Edition are made of 100% recycled plastic, and the cases are made of certified recycled cardboard.
